4. Delivered to William Darden, Senate Armed Services Committee staff, the two-page memorandum responding to his earlier request for certain cost figures on our retirement bill. Mr. Darden read these over and had no basic questions although he was somewhat surprised at the cost figures on the involuntary retirement feature. He questioned the necessity for clarification but accepted my explanation.

5. As a matter of information, exhibited to Mr. Darden the one-page fact sheet prepared by Personnel to support our view that passage of the amendments to the Missing Persons Act were desirable. Darden went over this and seemed appreciative of having the background. I indicated that we planned to have the Director hand to Chairman Russell the letter on the general subject urging action.
